TIMING METHODS IN

Lenormand

A SET TIME FRAME

You can use your intuition and experience to set a particular time frame before the reading even takes place. For example, you can decide that you want the reading to cover the next 2 years. Being clear before you begin the reading means that there is going to be no confusion over the period of time the reading will cover.

PULLING ONE CARD OR A STRING

If you have decided after the reading takes place that you would like to time the spread, then you can pull one card or a few cards to cover timing. Once you have did this you can add up the value of each Lenormand card in the reading and give yourself a time frame for how long the reading is going to take to place out.

THE MIDDLE CARD IN A 3X3

If you have used a 3x3 Spread, then telling the time is very simple. Basically, all that you do is take the middle card in the spread and assign the corresponding time to it. So, Sun in the middle of a 3x3 can predict that the events are going to play out during summertime.

LITERAL TIME IN GRAND TABLEAUS

You can set time periods to each house in a Grand Tableau. Using this method is super useful because you're not playing guessing games about timing. You pretty much are going into a reading knowing that each House symbolises a literal moment in time. Therefore, timing an event can be done quickly and effortlessly.

FIGURATIVE TIME IN GTS

Another way to utilise the Grand Tableau for timing is to use both literal and figurative interpretations. For this method, you would say that the House of Tower could symbolize something which will happen in 19 days, 19 weeks, or 19 months but it may also predict something which is going to happen during a government, public or bank holiday.

THE MEANINGS OF THE CUP CARDS

Every one of the Cup cards represents a different emotional state that reflects our inner selves and can put us in touch with our intuitive nature.

CUPS BY NUMBERS

Ace – one
Pure, boundless love is shown; with this card comes a feeling of connection and unity that overflows into all areas of life.

VIII – eight
The Eight of Cups signals it is time to leave behind emotional ties with the past and to move on toward new horizons.

II – two
A growing sense of harmony and commitment. Accept yourself and you will draw kindred spirits to you.

IX – nine
Happiness and contentment. Nine brings feelings of abundance and generosity. You have reached emotional fulfillment.

III – three
A celebration of good fortune with close friends or relatives. Expresses an ability to connect with your playful inner child.

X – ten
Love and security; a deep and overwhelming sense of joy and blessedness. All of your emotional needs are met.

IV – four
This represents dissatisfaction but also promises that an offer of help will come when least expected.

Page of Cups
Sensitivity and innocent love; the Page of Cups expresses a sense of spiritual connection and using your imagination.

V – five
Through accepting and coming to terms with disappointment, it is possible to move toward healing and self-renewal.

Knight of Cups
A lover who is not yet ready for commitment. The Knight of Cups symbolizes sexual attraction as a basis for a relationship.

VI – six
Nostalgia can color attitudes toward relationships. This card advises you to give and receive love in a warm relationship.

Queen of Cups
Emotional maturity; the Queen of this suit uncovers unconditional love based on true perception and wisdom.

VII – seven
This card tells you that your fantasies and daydreams need to be grounded so that you can turn them into reality.

King of Cups
A benefactor, especially in the arts. This King is a strong, mature man who may be the ideal lover or knight in shining armor.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DECKS

CUPS
The Cups in this deck symbolize your deepest emotions and how you relate to yourself and others. They supply a spiritual link to feelings of harmony.

CHALICES
In some decks, a chalice replaces the Cups. These relate to water, reflecting your deep feelings and showing your intuition. Chalice correspond with Cancer, Pisces, and Scorpio – Zodiac water signs.

BOWLS
The Cups are translated into bowls in some decks, but the significance is the same as the chalices. Overflowing bowls represent an abundance of positive feelings of love and joy.

HEARTS
In the modern playing deck, the Cups are usurped by the Hearts, aptly reflecting the original suit's strong link to the emotions and relationships.

A PREDOMINANCE OF CUPS

A predominance of cards from the Suit of Cups in a Tarot reading indicates

The Five of Cups represents disappointment, but also reassures that it is possible to move forward and heal.

that the questioner is dealing with emotional issues that have become their primary focus. Depending on the cards in the spread, this could be a new relationship or pain over emotional loss. Suppressed feelings may also resurface, bringing either confusion or clarity and joy.

A focus on Cups can also be present in readings concerning artistic endeavors.

The 6 of Chalices signifies it is time for you to freely express and explore love.

THE CHARACTERS OF THE SWORDS

The Swords' pip cards in your MBS deck reflect aspects of your personality that present challenges and will shatter illusions.

 ACE OF SWORDS You are filled with confidence and assured of success in your undertakings. Your mind is clear, you know exactly what you want and how to achieve it. Obstacles are removed and your eloquence compels others to listen to you. The Ace of Swords indicates a clear and unobstructed path ahead.	 TWO OF SWORDS An element of confusion arises, forcing you to step back and find your centre in order to see a clear way forward. You begin to understand that action needs to be balanced with introspection and relaxation to be truly effective. The Two of Swords shows a need for balance of thought and action.
 THREE OF SWORDS Conflict arises through emotional entanglements. Painful emotions stem from jealousy or lack of trust. The only way for you to find resolution is to use your head rather than your heart and so integrate clear communication. The Three of Swords reveals negative emotions and conflict.	 FOUR OF SWORDS A period of withdrawal enables you to recuperate while you gather your strength and regroup your ideas. A complete break from your regular routine, even a brief one, recharges you and helps you to find a clearer perspective on life. The Four of Swords tells you to step back and reflect on life.
 FIVE OF SWORDS When you draw the Five of Swords, you realise that the only way to end the current state of struggle is to let go and surrender. Acceptance of the situation, though this feels painful at first, allows you to heal and to find a new direction to move in. The Five of Swords demands you surrender to your current situation.	 SIX OF SWORDS You are now embarking on a fresh stage in your journey through life, and feel calmer and clearer. New horizons open you up to an increased sense of hope. You begin to put the past in perspective and see a way of moving on. The Six of Swords signifies a new, refreshed phase in your life.
 SEVEN OF SWORDS Problems in relationships need to be resolved by communication. You decide to set firmer boundaries and hold on to your individuality, creating a more cautious attitude, in which your integrity and sacred space become paramount. The Seven of Swords asks that you communicate your boundaries.	 EIGHT OF SWORDS You become aware of the intricacies of an oppressive situation and feel helpless within it. You are not as powerless as you believe and can use your anger and determination as tools to free yourself. Recognition of inner power provides impetus. The Eight of Swords shows a need to affirm your inner strength.
 NINE OF SWORDS You realise that the fears that have held you back are illusory and that they stem more from fear of your fears than from the situation itself. It's necessary to allow yourself time to grieve over past situations you may release yourself from them. The Nine of Swords shows that you need to let go of your fears.	 TEN OF SWORDS Spiritual lessons are integrated from the past pip cards, ace to nine, with which you have interacted, and things are not as bad as they seem. The lowest point has already been reached and now the only direction in which to move is upwards. The Ten of Swords symbolises lessons learned and positivity.
